A special event for women interested in technology

If you want to be a leader in the Tech industry, who better to learn from than the women who are already driving our business forward?

Our Winning Women in Technology program offers you a first-hand look at what it's like for a firm that invests US$9 billion in technology and has a team of over 40,000 technologists globally. You'll hear about the range of opportunities we have available - from the perspective of our female executives.

You'll meet with some of our most influential and inspirational female tech leaders. Listen to their stories and get their advice - after all, they were once in your shoes.
